1854/55, 4 d. Lithographed by H. Samson (Later A. Hillman)

The following stamps were used as illustrations in T. Debney's article "The First Stamps of Western Australia" in the Collectors Club of New York, Volume 70, number 1 of January-February, 1991, pages 12-26. Viewers are welcome to peruse this important article when viewing at Corinthila's offices. It should also be pointed out that most of the unused stamps in this section have the gum washed off to protect the stamps from tropicalisation from the originally applied gum.

Lithographed 4 d. blue, a superb example with large margins all round and showing portion of adjoining stamp at top (Row 2, Stamp 4, Pane D, position 39), overlapping 1854 1 d. black in a horizontal pair, MARGINS, tied to 1857 cover to East Grinstead, Sussex endorsed "Via St. George's Sound" by three strikes of the void obliterator in black. Framed "POST OFFICE / 🇺🇦 / FREMANTLE / WESTERN AUSTRALIA" oval handstamp at left; carried on the European & Australian Mail Co. "European" on the service's third homebound voyage which left King George's Sound on 21 March for Galle (April 5), and Suez (April 19); transferred to the "Etna" at Alexandria (April 25) for Malta and Southampton, arriving 8 May. London tombstone "Paid" in red on obverse (May 9), Tunbridge Wells cds on reverse of same day. Top flap missing and slight edge wear to be expected, a splendid and very rare first issue cover.

Note: There is a possibility that the cover was initially sent on the first unsuccessful homebound voyage of the "Oneida", which left KGS on 12 February 1857 only to return there with a broken soleplate and crank on 21 March 1857 - her mail was then transferred to the "European".

The Inverted Swan

One of the World's First Inverted Errors

In 1854, Western Australia issued its first stamps, featuring the colony's symbol, the black swan. While the 1d black was engraved in Great Britain by Perkins Bacon, other values were produced by Horace Samson in Perth using lithography, and with different frames around the swan design for each value.

In January 1855 the additional 4d stamps were needed. When the printing stone was brought out of storage, two of the impressions had been damaged, one was accidentally redone upside-down. The stone's block of 60 was transferred four times to make the printing stone, and 97 sheets were printed before the mistake was discovered and corrected, resulting in a total of 388 errors being printed. The tilted frame variety occurs four times on the printing stone of 240.

This is one of the world's first invert errors. Technically, it is the frame that is inverted, not the image of the swan, but it has become commonly known as the Inverted Swan. No unused copies are recorded.

The Inverted Swan on offer at Corinphila in November is registered as number VIII in the Encyclopedia of Rare and Famous Stamps (Williams 1993). The provenance goes back to 1913 when M. Kurt Maier bought the stamp in a collection and sold it onward to H.P. Manus. Plumridge in England sold it at auction 7 July 1933 to Richard Roberts, who sold it onward to a continental dealer the same year. Again, the same year it shifted hands to Robert B. Yardley, who kept it eleven years until H.R. Harmer Ltd in London sold it as lot #469 at the fifth Yardley sale in London to Noël Calnan. On 20 October 1964 Robson Lowe auctioned it again as lot #193, and it was sold to a collector in England who kept it until 15 June 1989, when the current owner bought it at Christie's Robson Lowe in New York as Lot #3454 on 15 June 1989.

H. P. Manus

Of the 13 genuine examples recorded*, only 6 are with collectors - including one extraordinary collection that contains no less than 4 examples (Nos. IV, VII, XI and XII). Thus, just two examples can be possibly "available" on the philatelic market. In November the opportunity arises to buy one of these TWO from The Dr Thomas and Richard Debney Collection.

R. B. Yardley

\ Previously it was 14 genuine examples recorded, only 7 with collectors. However, following a Stampboards.com thread (2018), one of the 14 was questioned (recorded as #XV) by members of the Western Australia Study Group in Perth and now 13 genuine examples are accepted. In Richard Debney's opinion the radical difference in the "O" of "FOUR" in #XV and the other accepted examples is conclusive.*

3559 The Inverted Frame 1854 (Aug 1): 4 d. pale blue, wmk. Swan sideways, a used cut round example of this famous stamp (Row 8, stamp 1, Pane A, position 141), fine lightly used with Bowra circle and bars numeral "2" obliterator of Perth in black, insignificant closed tear, showing the sheet marginal watermark at left and thus confirming the sheet position from the first Pane. The "Inverted Swan" variety was noticed and replaced before the larger printings of late 1855 and examples of these replaced stereotypes can be found in the following lots in this collection. Of the 13 examples of this error known to have survived this example is listed at number 'VIII' in L.N. and M. Williams's work on the world's rarities, 7 of the 13 are in permanent or institutional collections: The collection of His Majesty King Charles III, the Tapling at the British Library, The Duke of Leinster collection at the National Museum of Ireland, The Western Australian Museum in Perth, The White collection at the Mitchell Library in Sydney and two in the Miss Vickery collection in the Powerhouse Museum in Sydney. The remaining six examples (Williams number XV was later found to be a forgery) are with collectors - including one extraordinary collection that contains no less than 4 examples (Nos. IV, VII, XI and XII). Thus as I write, just two examples can be considered to be possibly "available" on the philatelic market. An outstandingly rare stamp and a famous and iconic error. Cert. RPSL (1933) Gi = £ 180'000.

1857/59, Lithographed by A. Hillman

The Printing Stone for the Two pence, of 240 impressions, was prepared from an Intermediate Stone of 18 (3 x 6), now in the Western Australia Museum in Perth (and illustrated in "Western Australia" on page 52), which in turn was built up from an initial transfer of 3 impressions. Of these, position 1 and 2 are touching and transfer type 3 has the word "PENICE" 9.7 mm. long as against 8.5 mm, and the words "TWO PENICE" nearly 1 mm. longer. Many of the stamps are found printed on both sides.

The Six Pence adhesive was similarly printed from a Stone of 240 impressions, lithographed by Alfred Hillman, made up from an intermediate Stone of 12 (4 x 3). The twelve types of each setting were first described by Sir Edward Bacon in the "London Philatelist" (Volume XXXIII, December 1924, No 396) and his types are used in the following descriptions. In addition to being of one basic type many stamps have their own distinctive positional Transfer varieties and, as with the Two Pence, the quality of the printing is often poor.

3670 Colour Changes, Recess by De La Rue from Perkins Bacon Plates 1864/65: 4 d. carmine and 6 d. violet, wmk. Crown CC, perf. 12½, used on 1867 single rate cover endorsed "Marseilles" to Oswestry, England tied by "Perth / GPO" duplex in black (April 27). Carried on "Avoca" to Galle, the "Surat" to Suez, from Alexandria on the "Syria" to Malta and Marseilles; reverse with Oswestry arrival cds (June 15). Minor opening tear at top but an attractive cover at the more expensive rate via Marseilles - 4 d. more than the "via Southampton" all sea route.

- 3673 6 d. indigo-violet, wmk. Crown CC, perf. 12½, a single example used 1869 cover to Brough, Yorkshire cancelled by the void obliterator in black. "NORTHAMPTON / WESTERN AUSTRALIA" cds at left (Oct 6) in black. A late use of the void obliterator (see below). Carried on the "Malta" to Galle, the "Candia" to Suez and from Alexandria via Malta on the "Delta". Small part of reverse flap missing, with Brough arrival cds (Dec 6) in black. A fine and very scarce cover.

Note: The P.O. at Wanerenooka closed down and was transferred to Northampton on 29 Nov 1866, taking with it the void grid obliterator used at the former Office. Whilst numbered cancellers were in use at this date, Northampton did not receive the number "35" until 1875.
