The Brian Moorhouse specialised Collection CHACO WAR 1932 - 1935

Paraguayan Soldiers at Alihatá 1932

The railway from the Paraguay river to the heart of the Chaco was a vital support line for the Paraguayan army, especially during the battle of Boquerón

The Chaco region is a triangular shaped area of around 300,000 square kilometers situated between Bolivia and Paraguay. The origins of the Chaco War actually date back to 1924 when Bolivia discovered oil in the Tarija region of the country. Bolivia, a landlocked country since the Pacific War 1879-1883, wished to exploit the full economic benefits by transporting the oil through the Chaco region to the Paraguay River, and to the Atlantic.

The first military skirmish between Bolivia and Paraguay actually took place in December 1928. Negotiations failed to produce a settlement and hostilities resumed in earnest June 1932 and lasted until a final cease-fire was declared on 14 June 1935. At the outbreak of the war Bolivia had some 100,000 trained troops and an airforce of around 50 planes. Paraguay's military forces consisted of some 5,000 mostly ill-equipped troops, an almost non-existing airforce of just five old Fiat biplanes, but a small navy operating on the navigable Paraguay river.

Bolivian Military Mail can be considered as genuinely scarce. At the outbreak of the war, in June 1932, there was no military postal service available for Bolivian troops. Paraguay was much quicker to set up a military postal system establishing a series of thirteen numbered offices known as 'Posta Militars'. The numbers of prisoners of war on both sides of the conflict were approx. 24,000 Bolivian POW's and approx. 2,700 Paraguayan POW's. The International Committee of the Red Cross did not set up a POW information agency in 1932 since the Uruguayan government had already established one. In co-operation with the Rotary Clubs of Asuncion and La Paz the Uruguayan agency had taken charge of forwarding the POW mail to their families.

A fascinating study of an important chapter in history for the South American continent.

TIERRA DEL FUEGO 1891

The most important collection of Tierra Del Fuego ever formed!

Tierra del Fuego is an archipelago that lies at the tip of the South American continent. The ownership of the area was settled by a treaty between Argentina and Chile in June 1881 giving the Eastern part of the main island to Argentina and the western part to Chile.

News of a fabulous discovery of gold at the southern tip of Patagonia in 1885 led to a small gold rush. Julio Popper, who was born in Romania and who had studied in Paris as a mining engineer, was in charge as the technical director of the 'Compania Lavaderos de Oro del Sud' to establish gold mining plants in Tierra del Fuego.

The output of Popper's first mining venture was around half a kilo of gold per day. In the following years Popper obtained mining and prospecting concessions for all Argentinian territory. By 1891 he had 66 men working, producing around 1 kilo of gold per day.

In 1890 the Argentinian Post Office opened up an agency in Tierra del Fuego, but failed to follow up with an organised mail boat service. Julio Popper privately arranged a ferryboat service to carry mail and other goods to and from Tierra del Fuego to the Chilean Port of Punta Arenas. He also issued his own 10 centavos postage stamp used for mail carried by horseback between the gold mining camps. The stamp also covered the carriage of mail by ships to connect the local Tierra del Fuego postal system with the regular postal systems of Chile and Argentina.

The entire Brian Moorhouse collection Tierra del Fuego 1891 - a wonderful and fascinating time travel into gold rush times! - can be viewed on www.corinphila.ch or on appointment in Zuerich or Wiesbaden/Frankfurt.

TIERRA DEL FUEGO 1891

The most important collection of Tierra Del Fuego ever formed!

Tierra del Fuego is an archipelago that lies at the tip of the South American continent. The ownership of the area was settled by a treaty between Argentina and Chile in June 1881 giving the Eastern part of the main island to Argentina and the western part to Chile.

News of a fabulous discovery of gold at the southern tip of Patagonia in 1885 led to a small gold rush. Julio Popper, who was born in Romania and who had studied in Paris as a mining engineer, was in charge as the technical director of the 'Compania Lavaderos de Oro del Sud' to establish gold mining plants in Tierra del Fuego.

The output of Popper's first mining venture was around half a kilo of gold per day. In the following years Popper obtained mining and prospecting concessions for all Argentinian territory. By 1891 he had 66 men working, producing around 1 kilo of gold per day.

In 1890 the Argentinian Post Office opened up an agency in Tierra del Fuego, but failed to follow up with an organised mail boat service. Julio Popper privately arranged a ferryboat service to carry mail and other goods to and from Tierra del Fuego to the Chilean Port of Punta Arenas. He also issued his own 10 centavos postage stamp used for mail carried by horseback between the gold mining camps. The stamp also covered the carriage of mail by ships to connect the local Tierra del Fuego postal system with the regular postal systems of Chile and Argentina.

The entire Brian Moorhouse collection Tierra del Fuego 1891 - a wonderful and fascinating time travel into gold rush times! - can be viewed on www.corinphila.ch or on appointment in Zuerich or Wiesbaden/Frankfurt.
