4532 1 d. red-brown on blued paper, black plate 11, lettered EC, an unused example with large margins all round, in a bright vibrant shade, fresh and very fine, superb large part og. An exceptional example of this rare stamp which is considerably scarcer in unused condition than the Black Plate 11 Gi AS74 = £ 8'500.

Due to the damage to 'ED', the offered stamp was cut from the multiple. The remaining irregular block of eight was in the Cooley and Buranasombati collections. This was again split, with a pair DC-DD appearing in Grosvenor (16 April 2002, lot 366) and the block of six DE-DG / ED-EG in Bonhams (14 Feb 2002). From the auction descriptions above, 'EC' was always one of the faultless stamps in the original multiple.

Note: From the block of 13 unused stamps forwarded by Jas. Campbell to G.H. Backhoffner at the Polytechnic Institution on the 9th February 1841: "Sir, I have much pleasure in transmitting to you herewith, by permission of Colonel Maberly, two sheets of the Penny Labels, one black, the other red - and a third sheet Two. Penny blue, the whole free from the adhesive preparation". The three sheets were sent as Official notice had been taken of the blueing of the paper and it is presumed that the stamps were sent to Mr. Backhoffner to investigate the discolouration. The sheets were unlikely to have been sent without gum as this may have been a cause of the 'discolouration'. See the 'British Philatelist', 1915-16, page 82.

4652 1878 (Sept 26): £ 1 brown-lilac, Plate 1, wmk. Maltese Cross, perf. $15\frac{1}{2} \times 15$, lettered FH, an unused example of excellent delicate colour, a couple of slightly blunted perforations at top mentioned for full accuracy, otherwise fresh and very fine, large part og. A splendid example of an enormously rare stamp. Cert. BPA (1997) Gi J126 = £ 90'000.

Notes:

On September 7, 1940, a very special train was waiting to depart from Bucharest. Loaded in haste with treasures from the Royal Palace, the train under steam was waiting for some prominent passengers: Carol II, King of Romania, accompanied by his mistress, servants, three poodles, two pekinese, parts of the Royal art collection and his famous stamp collection. The day before King Carol II was forced by the Antonescu's pro-German Iron Guard and a mob baying in the streets for his blood, to abdicate the throne in favour of his son Michael.

The train carriages were sealed and the train immediately departed, heading at full speed towards the Yugoslavian border. Shortly before reaching Yugoslavia the Iron Guard caught up and opened fire on the Royal train. King Carol and his mistress Magda Lupescu had to lie on the floor of their carriage to save their lives.

Finally, the train crossed the Romanian – Yugoslavian border with the prominent passengers uninjured and the valuable freight intact. Amongst the stamps on board the Royal train was an enormously rare British stamp in the King's collection: One of the finest preserved Great Britain 1878, ONE POUND brown-lilac with Watermark 'Maltese Cross', lettered FH, in mint condition. It is believed that King Carol had purchased the stamp on 23 February 1933, when the mint ONE POUND was sold as lot 4652 at the London stamp auction house Plumridge & Co. as part of the L. Praportchetovitch collection.

In exile, King Carol II and Magda Lupescu married in 1947 and settled in Spain, Portugal and Mexico. From time to time, they had to sell parts of the King's stamp collection to raise funds, including the mint 1878, ONE POUND which was offered and sold in March 1951 in New York.

- 4678 1881 (March 23): 2½ d. blue, Plate 23, wmk. Crown, lettered FK, used on 1884 cover from London to "The Manager, Cryolite Co., Cryolite Bay, Greenland", tied by hooded 'London EC' datestamp (May 10) in black. Reverse with Copenhagen transit datestamp (May 12) in black and obverse with '25' (öre) charge in blue crayon. Extremely rare - a quite extraordinary destination for British mail at this date.
Note: Cryolite is an uncommon mineral identified with the once large deposit at Ivigtût on the west coast of Greenland, since depleted. It was historically used as an ore of aluminium and later in the electrolytic processing of the aluminium-rich oxide ore bauxite.

Note: HMS Invincible was Admiral Seymour's temporary flagship at the 1882 bombardment of Alexandria. She provided men for the naval brigade that was subsequently landed and she also provided men for Charles Beresford's naval brigade in the Sudan campaign of 1885. By this date she was in Asian waters on her way to China.
